DAWNIA SIMMONS,
Plaintiff

v.

MARRIOT COURT YARD,
Defendant.

Case No. 19-cv-04431-PJH

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Re: Dkt. No. 55

Defendant Courtyard Management Corporation’s (“Marriott” or “defendant”)<sup>1</sup> motion for summary judgment came on for hearing before this court on December 2, 2021. Plaintiff, proceeding pro se, appeared on her own behalf. Defendant appeared through its counsel, Monte K. Grix and Alia L. Chaib. Having read the papers filed by the parties<sup>2</sup> and carefully considered their arguments and the relevant legal authority, and good cause appearing, the court hereby GRANTS defendant’s motion, for the following reasons.

I. BACKGROUND

Courtyard Management Corporation is a subsidiary of Marriott International, Inc. (“Marriott”) and operates the Courtyard by Marriott brand of hotels, which includes the Courtyard hotel in San Ramon, California (the “Courtyard San Ramon”). Webb Decl. ¶ 1 (Dkt. 55-1 at 2). Plaintiff Dawnia Simmons was hired by Marriott as a Housekeeping Aide

<sup>2</sup> Plaintiff filed an untimely opposition the day before the hearing. Nonetheless, defendant had an opportunity to reply to it at the hearing and the court has considered it here.

1 at the Courtyard San Ramon on September 5, 2017. Webb Decl. ¶ 14 (Dkt. 55-1 at 5).

2 A. Plaintiff's Resignation

3 Plaintiff took a leave of absence from early February 2018 to March 4, 2018.
4 DeFinney Decl. ¶ 3 (Dkt. 55-2 at 2). Upon returning to the workplace on March 4, 2018, 5 plaintiff resigned by delivering a brief, handwritten resignation letter to a housekeeping
6 supervisor and then immediately cleared out her locker and left the property. Grix Decl.
7 ¶¶ 2-3, Ex. 1-2; Simmons Depo. Vol. 1, 40:16-22, 48:2-10, 56:17-57:4, Vol. 2, 234:24-8 235:13, Ex. 3 (Dkt. 55-4 at 2, 7-8, 10-11, 71-72, 105). Plaintiff did not speak to the 9 General Manager, Lisa DeFinney, regarding her resignation, and plaintiff does not know if 10 the housekeeping supervisor informed DeFinney regarding plaintiff's resignation.
11 Simmons Depo. Vol. 1, 56:17-24, 58:10-16 (Dkt. 55-4 at 10, 12); DeFinney Decl. ¶ 3 (Dkt.
12 55-2 at 2.)

13 B. Plaintiff's June 2018 Post-Resignation Complaint to Marriott and 14 Resulting Investigation

15 On June 8, 2018, three months after her resignation, plaintiff lodged an internal 16 complaint with Marriott claiming that she had applied for job opportunities within the 17 company but believed her previous general manager had "black-balled" her because she 18 is African American. Webb Decl. ¶¶ 5, 6, 9, Ex. 2 (Dkt. 55-1 at 3-4, 12-15). Plaintiff also 19 alleged she did not receive a pay increase that she believed she was entitled to receive 20 after 90 days of employment. Id.; Simmons Depo., Vol. 1, 55:4-7 (Dkt. 55-4 at 9).

21 Julius Webb, Area Manager of Associate Relations, who oversaw human 22 resources issues at the Courtyard San Ramon, received this complaint and investigated 23 plaintiff's concerns, which included a review of plaintiff's personnel records and also 24 included several conversations with plaintiff and DeFinney. Webb Decl. ¶¶ 5-12, Ex. 2 25 (Dkt. 55-1 at 3-5, 12-15). Marriott discovered that, while the company did not provide 26 automatic 90-day pay increases as plaintiff had alleged, an hourly rate increase of $1.50
27 had been approved for all associates in plaintiff's job position in January 2018. DeFinney 28 Decl., ¶¶ 6, 7, Ex. 4 (Dkt. 55-2 at 3-4, 21-22); Webb Decl. ¶¶ 5, 9, Ex. 2; (Dkt. 55-1 at 3-5,

1 12-15). Plaintiff had not received this rate increase due to a clerical error, so Marriott 2 issued payment to plaintiff in the amount of $98.70 (pre-tax) reflecting the rate increase 3 and $3,240 in “waiting time penalties” under section 203 of the California Labor Code
4 because plaintiff was not paid all wages owed at the time of her resignation. Id. Plaintiff
5 picked up her checks at the Courtyard San Ramon in person and spoke with DeFinney, 6 who apologized for the error. Simmons Depo., Vol. 1, 93:3-12; Vol. 2, 225:5-16 (Dkt. 55-7 4 at 22; 65).

8       Webb also investigated the circumstances surrounding plaintiff’s separation from 9 Marriott. Webb Decl. ¶¶ 5-12, Exs. 2, 3 (Dkt. 55-1 at 3-5, 11-18). Despite plaintiff’s 10 statement that she had resigned from the property, Webb discovered that internal 11 documents reflected that plaintiff had been involuntarily terminated. Webb Decl. ¶ 7 (Dkt.
12 55-1 at 4). Webb and DeFinney together determined that DeFinney had inadvertently 13 confused plaintiff with a coworker terminated for facing similar attendance challenges, 14 leaving the company’s records incorrect. Webb Decl. ¶ 12 (Dkt. 55-1 at 4-5); DeFinney 15 Decl. ¶¶ 9-11 (Dkt. 55-2 at 3-5). In consultation with Webb, DeFinney corrected the 16 internal separation code to reflect a voluntary resignation, and it was updated in Marriott’s 17 records on July 16, 2018. Webb Decl. ¶ 12, Ex. 3 (Dkt. 55-1 at 4-5, 17-18); DeFinney
18 Decl. ¶ 9, Ex. 7 (Dkt. 55-2 at 5, 28-29). Webb informed plaintiff of the inadvertent error 19 and advised that her separation code had been corrected. Webb Decl. ¶ 12 (Dkt. 55-1 at 20 4-5).

21       Webb was unable to substantiate plaintiff’s concerns that she had been “black 22 balled” by DeFinney, and DeFinney denied communicating with prospective employers 23 about plaintiff’s employment. Webb Decl. ¶ 13 (Dkt. 55-1 at 5). Webb closed his 24 investigation file on July 23, 2018. Webb Decl. ¶ 9, Ex. 2 (Dkt. 55-1 at 4, 12-15).

25           C. Alleged Defamatory Statements

26       Plaintiff limits her sole claim of defamation to alleged defamatory statements made 27 by Marriott to prospective hiring managers. Dkt. 1. Plaintiff testified that following her 28 resignation from Marriott, she applied for employment with at least nine hotels and, from

1 these, had seven interviews at various hotels, including interviews at other Marriott-brand 2 hotels. Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 198:18-202:15 (Dkt. 55-4 at 43-47). Plaintiff believes 3 that she did not receive an offer for any of these positions because DeFinney made the 4 following untrue statements about her to hiring managers at prospective employers: (1) 5 she was “fired for misconduct,” (2) she is “a troublemaker,” (3) she is “hard to work with,” 6 and (4) she had a criminal background. Simmons Depo, Vol. 1, 96:14-17 (Dkt. 55-4 at 7 25-26) Vol. 2, 230:14- 231:4; 233:6-16 (Dkt. 55-4 at 67-68, 70). Plaintiff did not 8 remember the dates of these purported interviews, and she could not identify any event 9 after July 14, 2018 (the date she received her checks for the retroactive pay and the 10 waiting time penalties) where a hiring manager claimed she was terminated from Marriott.
11 Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 223:24-224:17, 225:5-9, 226:3-8 (Dkt. 55-4 at 63-64, 65, 66); 12 DeFinney Decl. ¶ 7, Ex. 4 (Dkt. 55-2 at 21-22).

13 Plaintiff did not proffer any documentary evidence confirming any interviews at any 14 time, but rather has only provided emails that appear to confirm that she had applied at 15 certain hotels in 2018 or 2019. Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 195:17-197:15, 218:9-219:16, 16 Exs. 1, 2 (Dkt. 55-4 at 40-42, 61-62, 77-104). Plaintiff could not provide the names of any 17 of the hiring managers who relayed the allegedly defamatory statements about her.
18 Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 202:13-215:15 (Dkt. 55-4 at 47-60). Plaintiff admitted that she 19 does not “have any knowledge of anything that [DeFinney] said about me,” but she 20 believes DeFinney made comments to potential employers because she was the General 21 Manager and she had access to personnel records. Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 233:19-22 234:16 (Dkt. 55-4 at 70-71). Plaintiff additionally believes that DeFinney disclosed to a 23 hiring manager that she has a criminal background. Simmons Depo., Vol. 2, 230:14-24 232:16 (Dkt. 55-4 at 67-69). Plaintiff has no knowledge of why DeFinney may have made 25 these alleged statements, nor does she know if the alleged statements were made with 26 any malintent. Simmons Depo., Vol. 1, 122:17-123:7, 123:16-22 (Dkt. 55-4 at 29-30).
27 DeFinney declares that she did not speak to any hiring managers at other hotels about 28 plaintiff’s performance or the circumstances surrounding her separation from Marriott.

1 DeFinney Decl. ¶¶ 4-6 (Dkt. 55-2 at 3); Webb Decl. ¶¶ 10, 13, Ex. 2 (Dkt. 55-1 at 4-5, 12-2 15); Said Decl. ¶ 2, Ex. 1 (Dkt. 55-3 at 2, 4-5).

3 D. Procedural History

4 On August 1, 2019, plaintiff filed the complaint in this action. Dkt. 1. The 5 complaint alleged three causes of action: (1) defamation of character; (2) retaliation; and 6 (3) discrimination. Dkt. 1. The court granted defendant's motion to dismiss the second 7 and third claims, but the court denied the motion with regard to the first claim, leaving the 8 claim for defamation of character remaining. Dkt. 38. Plaintiff did not file an amended 9 complaint. Defendant filed the instant motion on October 28, 2021, after the parties 10 engaged in discovery. Dkt. 55. Although plaintiff filed a late response to defendant's 11 motion (Dkt. 59), her brief was still reviewed and is considered an opposition brief by the 12 court.

13 II. DISCUSSION

14 A. Legal Standard

15 A party may move for summary judgment on a "claim or defense" or "part of . . . a 16 claim or defense." Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). Summary judgment is appropriate when there 17 is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to judgment 18 as a matter of law. Id.

19 A party seeking summary judgment bears the initial burden of informing the court 20 of the basis for its motion, and of identifying those portions of the pleadings and discovery
21 responses that demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. Celotex 22 Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Material facts are those that might affect the 23 outcome of the case. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A 24 dispute as to a material fact is "genuine" if there is sufficient evidence for a reasonable 25 jury to return a verdict for the nonmoving party. Id.

26 Where the moving party will have the burden of proof at trial, it must affirmatively 27 demonstrate that no reasonable trier of fact could find other than for the moving party.
28 Soremekun v. Thrifty Payless, Inc., 509 F.3d 978, 984 (9th Cir. 2007). On an issue

1 where the nonmoving party will bear the burden of proof at trial, the moving party may 2 carry its initial burden of production by submitting admissible “evidence negating an 3 essential element of the nonmoving party’s case,” or by showing, “after suitable 4 discovery,” that the “nonmoving party does not have enough evidence of an essential 5 element of its claim or defense to carry its ultimate burden of persuasion at trial.” Nissan 6 Fire & Marine Ins. Co., Ltd. v. Fritz Cos., Inc., 210 F.3d 1099, 1105-06 (9th Cir. 2000); 7 see also Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324-25 (moving party can prevail merely by pointing out to 8 the district court that there is an absence of evidence to support the nonmoving party’s 9 case).

10 When the moving party has carried its burden, the nonmoving party must respond 11 with specific facts, supported by admissible evidence, showing a genuine issue for trial.
12 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c), (e). But allegedly disputed facts must be material—the existence of 13 only “some alleged factual dispute between the parties will not defeat an otherwise 14 properly supported motion for summary judgment.” Anderson, 477 U.S. at 247-48.

15 When deciding a summary judgment motion, a court must view the evidence in the 16 light most favorable to the non-moving party and draw all justifiable inferences in its favor.
17 Id. at 255; Hunt v. City of Los Angeles, 638 F.3d 703, 709 (9th Cir. 2011). However, 18 when a non-moving party fails to produce evidence rebutting defendants’ showing, then 19 an order for summary adjudication is proper. Nissan Fire, 210 F.3d at 1103 (“If the 20 nonmoving party fails to produce enough evidence to create a genuine issue of material 21 fact, the moving party wins the motion for summary judgment.”). The court’s function on 22 a summary judgment motion is not to make credibility determinations or weigh conflicting 23 evidence with respect to a disputed material fact. See T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc., v. Pac.
24 Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 630 (9th Cir. 1987).

25 While allegations from a pro se litigant are to be liberally construed, see Hebbe v.
26 Pliler, 627 F.3d 338, 342 (9th Cir. 2010), the Ninth Circuit has also held that “pro se 27 litigants in the ordinary civil case should not be treated more favorably than parties with 28 attorneys of record.” Jacobsen v. Filler, 790 F.2d 1362, 1364 (9th Cir. 1986) (holding that

1 the district court had no duty to advise a non-prisoner pro se litigant of his obligation to 2 file an opposition to the defendant's motion for summary judgment and submit admissible
3 evidence). Where, as here, the "litigant . . . chooses himself as a legal representative," 4 the Ninth Circuit has held that plaintiff "should be treated no different." Id. at 1365 ("it is 5 not for the trial court to inject itself into the adversary process on behalf of on class of 6 litigant" because "[d]oing so necessarily implicates the court's impartiality and 7 discriminates against opposing parties who do have counsel.").

8           B. Evidentiary Considerations

9           "A trial court can only consider admissible evidence in ruling on a motion for 10 summary judgment." Orr v. Bank of Am., NT & SA, 285 F.3d 764, 773 (9th Cir. 2002).
11 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56(c)(4) requires that "[a]n affidavit or declaration used to 12 support or oppose a motion must be made on personal knowledge, set out facts that 13 would be admissible in evidence, and show that the affiant or declarant is competent to 14 testify on the matters stated." To be admissible, a document must be authentic, meaning 15 there must be "evidence sufficient to support a finding that the item is what the proponent 16 claims it is." Fed. R. Evid. 901(a). Certain documents are self-authenticating—that is, 17 "[e]xtrinsic evidence of authenticity . . . is not required." Fed. R. Evid. 902. The Ninth 18 Circuit has repeatedly held that "unauthenticated documents cannot be considered in a 19 motion for summary judgment." Orr, 285 F.3d at 773.

20           Hearsay evidence similarly may not be considered on summary judgment if it does 21 not fall under a hearsay exception. Orr, 285 F.3d 778. Hearsay is a "statement, other 22 than one made by the declarant while testifying at a trial or hearing, offered in evidence to 23 prove the truth of the matter asserted." Fed. R. Evid. 801(c).

24           Here, the exhibits of documentary evidence attached to plaintiff's opposition brief 25 are all inadmissible. The exhibits have not been properly authenticated. There is no 26 direct statement anywhere identifying the author of the exhibits or indicating the author 27 and/or declarant's belief that the exhibits are true and correct copies of the exhibits. Orr, 28 285 F.3d at 773 (documents that lack foundation inadmissible). There is insufficient

1 support for a finding that the items are what plaintiff says they are, and none of the 2 documents are self-authenticating.

3 Further, plaintiff's opposition to defendant's motion relies in substantial part on 4 hearsay. Plaintiff alleges that defendant defamed her by making false statements about 5 her to hiring managers at other hotels. Dkt. 1 at 5. The evidence supporting such 6 allegations is plaintiff's deposition testimony describing statements made to her by 7 unnamed hiring managers, but the description of these out-of-court statements 8 constitutes inadmissible hearsay. Plaintiff only speculates that DeFinney had substantive 9 conversations about plaintiff with hiring managers after her resignation. Dkt. 55-4 at 25-10 28. Plaintiff additionally speculates that DeFinney disclosed to a hiring manager that she 11 has a criminal background. Dkt. 55-4 at 67-69. The out-of-court statements by unnamed 12 hiring managers amount to hearsay and cannot support plaintiff's remaining claim for 13 defamation because they do not fall within an evidentiary exception to the hearsay rule.

14 Given these evidentiary determinations, including the lack of authentication of the 15 exhibits offered by plaintiff and the hearsay nature of the statements, plaintiff fails to offer
16 any admissible evidence contesting defendant's motion. The merits of defendant's 17 motion for summary judgment are considered below.

18 C. Analysis

19 Marriott moves for judgment on multiple fronts. The company argues that 20 plaintiff's claim is time-barred and that plaintiff fails to present evidence that DeFinney or 21 other staff made any statements about plaintiff to any prospective employers. But even if 22 Marriott made any such statements to prospective employers, it says, the statements did 23 not constitute defamation where they were either (1) true (as in the case of plaintiff's 24 criminal history), (2) opinion (as in the alleged descriptions of plaintiff's work 25 performance), or (3) privileged (as are communications regarding employer-employee 26 relationships made without malice to potential employers). The court need not reach 27 these considerations regarding the contents of any alleged statements because plaintiff's 28 claim is time-barred and there exists no admissible evidence in the record of any

1 publication.

2           1. Statute of Limitations

3           “[T]he statute of limitations for defamation . . . requires that an action be filed within 4 one year of accrual of the cause of action.” Shively v. Bozanich, 31 Cal. 4th 1230, 1246-5 47 (2003); see also Cal. Code Civ. Proc. § 340(c). “[A] cause of action for defamation 6 accrues at the time the defamatory statement is ‘published.’” Id. at 1247. “[T]he general 7 rule is that publication occurs when the defendant communicates the defamatory 8 statement to a person other than the person being defamed.” Id. Under the “discovery” 9 exception to the general rule, the defamation claim accrues when the plaintiff discovered, 10 or should have discovered, a factual basis for her defamation claim. Id. at 1248.

11           Plaintiff does not identify any instances of allegedly defamatory statements to 12 hiring managers at prospective hotels following her receipt of her pay increase in July 13 2018. Rather, the rejection emails plaintiff received related to prospective jobs were 14 dated either March 5 or March 12, 2018. Dkt. 55-4 at 77-79. Marriott’s investigation into 15 plaintiff’s post-resignation complaint was concluded no later than July 23, 2018, when 16 Webb closed his investigation file. Dkt. 55-1 at 4, 12. This lawsuit was not filed until 17 August 1, 2019, more than one year after any alleged statements about plaintiff. Dkt. 1.
18 Thus, her defamation claim is barred by the one-year statute of limitations and summary
19 judgment is granted to defendant as a matter of law on this basis. Even if plaintiff’s 20 claims were not barred by the statute of limitations, however, plaintiff’s claims additionally 21 fall short because she fails to submit admissible evidence that defendant published false 22 statements to a third party, discussed next.

23           2. Publication

24           “The tort of defamation ‘involves (a) a publication that is (b) false, (c) defamatory, 25 and (d) unprivileged, and that (e) has a natural tendency to injure or that causes special 26 damage.’” Taus v. Loftus, 40 Cal.4th 683, 720 (2007) (quoting 5 Witkin, Summary of Cal.
27 Law (10th ed. 2005) Torts, § 529, p. 782). “Defamation is effected either by libel or 28 slander (§ 44), each of which is defined as a false and unprivileged publication (§§ 45,

1       46). Slander . . . is defined as an oral communication that '[t]ends directly to injure [a 2       person] in respect to his [or her] office, profession, trade or business.'" Noel v. River Hills 3       Wilsons, Inc., 113 Cal.App.4th 1363, 1368 (2003) (emphasis added). "Publication, which 4       may be written or oral, is defined as a communication to some third person who 5       understands both the defamatory meaning of the statement and its application to the 6       person to whom reference is made." Ringler Assocs. Inc. v. Md. Cas. Co., 80
7       Cal.App.4th 1165, 1179 (2000) (citing Cunningham v. Simpson, 1 Cal.3d 301, 306 8       (1969)).

9                  Here, plaintiff fails to establish a publication supporting libel or slander. That is, 10       she does not offer any admissible evidence that Marriott or its representatives 11       communicated with potential employers about her. As noted above, the only evidence 12       that any of defendant's representatives conveyed anything about plaintiff to a third party 13       comes from plaintiff's own inadmissible descriptions of hearsay in her deposition 14       testimony.

15                  In her opposition brief and at the hearing, plaintiff argued that DeFinney's 16       testimony could not be relied upon given the inconsistencies and paperwork errors 17       related to plaintiff's separation from Marriott. Dkt. 59 at 2. The court does not consider 18       the inconsistencies plaintiff attempts to highlight because credibility determinations are 19       not part of the court's function on a summary judgment motion. T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc., 20       809 F.2d at 630. And further, plaintiff's argument fails to identify any admissible evidence 21       creating a genuine issue of material fact. Plaintiff admits that she does not "have any 22       knowledge of anything that [DeFinney] said about me," but she believes DeFinney made 23       comments to potential employers because she was the general manager and she had 24       access to personnel records. Dkt. 55-4 at 70-71. This inference is insufficient. In 25       contrast, defendant offers evidence that DeFinney did not speak to any hiring managers 26       at other hotels about plaintiff's performance or the circumstances surrounding her 27       separation from Marriott. Dkt. 55-2 at 3; Dkt. 55-1 at 4-5, 12-15; see also Dkt. 55-3.
28       Based on this factual record, plaintiff fails to establish that Marriott or its staff published

1 any statements about her to any third parties. Plaintiff, as the non-moving party, fails to 2 produce evidence rebutting defendants' showing, and an order for summary adjudication
3 in favor of defendant is proper. Nissan Fire, 210 F.3d at 1103.

4 III. CONCLUSION

5 For the reasons stated above, including that plaintiff's claim is time-barred and that 6 plaintiff fails to identify any statement published to a third party beyond her own 7 speculation or hearsay statements of unidentified persons, the court GRANTS 8 defendant's motion for summary judgment.
